ALLEGED BRIBERY. Four School Inspectors Arrested

Wild Excitement at a Meeting of Board of Education,

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 16. A sensation was sprung at last night's meeting of the Board of Education, when four of the school inspectors who were in national sense on the inspectors arrested, charged with soliciting bribes. The names of the inspectors arrested are: Julius C. Liotenberg, Joseph A. Walsh, Milo H. Davis and W. C. Lippardt. All these men are well known citizens. The warrants were sworn out on the specific charge that on August 8th four inspectors solicited and received a bribe from the general agent of a School Senting Company to whom a contract was awarded.

Mayor Pingree was present at last night's meeting, and just before the meeting closed he took the floor and called on the inspectors who had received bribes to resign immediatily. No one responded and Davis was called to his feet. He indignatily denied the charge of bribery and called the Mayor a liar. An officer was called in to make the arrest but was prefered out of the room by the President of the Board of Education. The arrests were made after the meeting had adjourned.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Air.—Senate Atmosphere Too Strong for him.

Washington, Aug. 16. Private Secretary Thurber, who did not leave the city this morning with the President, as was at first supposed, maltes the following autifibrized statement: The President left this morning for a few days absence, under the advice of his physician, in the hope of shaking off an attack of malaria from which he had been suffering for several days. Yesteday, the attack culminated in fever, but which was under control this morning. Dr. O'Reilly, his physician, expressed no doubt that a few days of salt air and rest will recuperate the President sufficiently to renew his dilicial duties, and he will return to Washington by the middle of next week. He has gone to Gray Gables, and is accompanied by Dr. O'Reilly. Anxiety over the tariff situation is supposed to have aggravated the hailsposition, and when the maiter-was settled by the action of the House in passing the tariff bill the reluxation came, and made a change of air necessary. The Royal Hawalian Commission

The Royal Hawalian Commiscion

The Royal Hawalian Commission Leave for Honolulu.

Four members of the Royal Hawalian Commission who came here to secure redress for ox-Queen Lilluckalani or to prevent recognition of the new republic left for Honolulu.

Whatever the exact nature of this mysterious mission to Washington may have been, it seems certain that it was a complete failure. The announcements made by individual envoys that they had obtained an appointment for a hearing at the State department turned out to be untrue. Only one of them went to the State department and he introduced himself to Secretary Gresham and was simply given the hearing in the public reception; room, which would be accorded to rony private citizen or foreign visitor calling on personal business.

There is every reason to bolieve also that the envoys falled to see the President before his departure for Buzzards Bay. If they did get admission to him it must have been laken by the State department was that when the United States government offered to restore Lilluckolani on condition of granting general ammesty and she refused that offer, insisting upon taking off the heads of the chief members of the provisional government, the administration considered its relations with the ex-Queen sa terminated.

Sr. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 16. The damage to the corn crop in parts of Kansas and Nebraska is so great that the St. age to the corn crop in parts of Ranasa and Nobraska is so great that the St. Joseph and Grand Island Raillond has issued orders for the abandoment of over a dozen stations on its lines. The officers of the rond say the stations are not abandoned permanently, although there is little probability of their being re-opened until another crop is assured. The people along the line in the sections where the stations are closed depended almost entreity on the corn crop and now are leaving in great numbers and there is absolutely no business for the railroads.

A Reign of Terror Among Jamaicans and Natives.

Mônile, Ala., Aug. 16. The steamer Semniva arrived here late last night from Bluefields. Mosquito reservation. She left Bluefields on the morning of August 10. The Semniva brings the following advices: The Nicaraguans urrived in the vicinity of Bluefields, Monday. August 6th and moved on Bluefields.

lowing advices: The Nicaraguans urrived in the vicinity of Bluefields, Monday, August 6th and moved on Bluefields. August 8th. Their force numbered 800. Bluefields was occupied penceably. The Mosquito fing was lowered, put in a cannon and fired with a salute to the Nicaraguan fisg, which had been holsted to the top of a fing staff. The British and American marines were notified by Gen. Cabezas to return to their vessels. The order was obeyed.

The British offered to take the Jamaicans and natives to Port Limon free of charge if they desired. Three bundred of them subsequently accepted the invitation, as there were rumors that the Nicaraguans intended to Rill all the Jamaicans and ontives. There was for a time a reign of terror among this class of inhabitants. They ran through the streets, the women screening and the children crying, the men hurrying lither and thither, carrying their household goods. Some left all that they had and rushed to the wharves, willing to leave in any sort of a craft, their only desire being to get away from Bluefields at once.

The British man-of-war Mohawk took as many of the refugees as she could carry. Others went in private boats.

Gen. Cabezas sasumed command of Bluefield and Issued a proclamation, deing martial law in force.

The Americane felt much disappointed at the action of the commanders of American vessels, the Marblehead and Columbia. They thought American marines had been landed to protect American lives and property, but at the supreme moment these were abandoned. The officers said they were compelled to obey the orders of Cabezas, but would nevertheless brook no interference with American interests. The Americans who attended to their own affairs and have taken no part in the present intrigues are not in the least molested. Those Americans who were involved in the political intrigues have left. They went to Capt. O'Neil, of the United States man-of-war Mutbiehead, and implored his protection. He told them brighy that if they had violated the laws of the country he could not afford them protection and if they took refuge on his vessel and a demand was made for thom he would be compelled to give them up. Capt. O'Neil registed for the popeals and entreaties of those American intrigues who sought his protection.

Walting the New Tariff Bill to Bacome a Law.

San Francisco, Aug. 16. The importers here are anxiously awaiting the expiration of the 10 days when the tariff bill will become a law. For sitx minths they have been piling up dufiable goods in light bonded warehouses and five borded yards. The goods in bond are valued at from $25,000,000, and include spirits, opium, rice, dry goods, thi and imported wines. Several vessels are also on the way here with goods, which were ordered in the belief that the tariff bill would be passed. Several large importers have big consignments of summer goods in bond, and they have been pluced in the dilemma of seeing the summer pass with no chance of securing reduced duties. The government will lose a good sum on these goods as they will all be withdrawn under the reduced schedule, except spirits, which will be taken out the day before the hill becomes a law.

SAID SHE WAS DRUGGED.

A Sudden and Mysterious Death in Lowell, Mass.

Ilowell, Mass.

Ilowell, Mass.

There was a adden and mysterious death at the Harris House, Wednesday afternoon and the police are at work on the case. A woman entered Robinson's candy shop, about six o'clock Monday night and asked for a drink of water. She appended to be drunk, but told an employe hamed Joseph Maguire; that she had been drugged. Further than this she would not talk. She remained in the pince un-lil pearly eloven loclock when Maguire started to close up.

On account of her condition he was going to turn her over to the police, but she hegged him to find her a room in a hotel instead. He took pity on her and secured a room at the Harris House. She got up in the morning and went out. She returned shortly, and went again to her room. No one nosleed her re-enter the room, and the first anyone knew she was there, was much shortly, and went again to he from No one nosleed her re-enter the bed. The police were notified, and the undertaker removed the body. Near her was found a note addressed to C. A. Morton, saying that she could not wait any longer, as she had to go in to Concord.

The question that puzzles the police is who he is. A man of that name lives at the police is wine he is. A man of that name lives at the police is wine he is. A man of that name lives at the police is wine he is. A man of that name lives at the police is wine he is.

any longer, as she had to go on to Concord.

The question that puzzles the police is 107 Fremont street, but his character is such that he could not be connected in a matter of that kind. The note was signed C. E. Potter. On the woman's shoes and stockings was also the same name. It has been competed that she came to this city Monday night and stopped at the American House. In a conversation Tuesday morning she claimed to belong in Concord, where she said she was going to work in the sylum as a nurse. She also claimed to be an actress and said Morton, for whom she was looking, was an actor. Medical Examiner Irieb received the remains and said there were certain things about the matter which are sufficient to make necessary a post mortem examination.

A Dog May Bite Once Under the laws of the State of New Jersey, as expounded in Paterson by Poblig, a dog is entitled to one bite from any portion of any one person's anatomy So long as he does not exceed this ilmit the dog is safe. If he does exceed it, he may be shot, and his owner is liable for damage. Julius Pohlig keeps a saloon and owned a Newfoundland dog. Joseph Marino is a bootblack, and Mr. Poblig's dog bit him. Marino sued Poblig for $2,000 damages. The case was tried

The prosecution proved that the bitt had been a deep one, penetrating the muscles of the back. The defense moved muscles of the back. The defense moved for a non-suit on the ground that It had been proved that the dog was vicious.

Judge Kerr sustained the defense. He ruled that a dog might bite a person once and not be vicious. To prove viciousness it must be clearly shown that the dog had bitten a second person or the same person twice. To hold the owner for damages it must be shown that he knew all about the first bite.

It is not necessary, however, to cite testimony as the lumber operator, the manufacturer, the man who works in the woods as well as the man who works in the mills understand this question as they have already had a practical manifestation of what free lumber will mean to them in the demoralization of the business and the shrinkage in wages that has resulted from the mere possibility of the removal of the duty. The farmers, many of whom conducted small operasuffer severely from this flumber legislation, not only from the fact of being de-prived of the opportunity to go into the woods," but by reason of the decreased Operations they will lose a valuable market for their products. In addition to this they are to be subjected to a serious competition in all them products the duty on which has been reduced by this Democratic legislation so as to very materially lessen the protection the have enjoyed under the McKinley law.

This is not a pleasant outlook, but it is not all the Democratic party has done to deserve popular condemnation. In obedience to the mandate of the Sugar Trust, which dictated that schedule of the Senate bill in which it has direct in terest, sugar has been restored to the dutiable list. This means a direct tax upon every household in the State 1 was estimated that the effect of Republican legislation on this article of prime necessity was a saving of from $600,000 to $700 000 per annum to the people of Maine Thus it will be seen that this Democratic legislation cuts both wave it will reduce the earning capacity of the laboring man, and ut the time increase his living expense force him to do away with sugar at his

As we said above it oughs not to take the voter lpng to decide what he will do in the coming election. A ballot for the ber, timed sugar and lower wages, It goes without saying that a verdict of condemnation will be returned, but I should be the aim of every Republica to make the victory so emphatic that it will prove a powerful campaign argu-ment in the other States where the elections dd not occur until Navember prominent part the Democrats have no hope of electing their ficket, but will concentrate their forces at certain points with a view of stealing a county office, or a seat in the legislature. In this end hey will no doubt offer to trade votes and resort to the usual campaign roor backs calculated to mislead the people this sout of trickery is a regular feature of Democratic compaign methods and has been practiced for years. The way to checkmate this is to vote the straight ticket and pay no attention to the talk of the Democrats whose only nim is to steal vote now and then from the Republi I of the Republicans in every town in the dounty matect a thorough organization that will bring out the full parts vote and Penobscot will contribute its share toward the general repuduation of the Democratic prosperity destroyers to be registered in this State next month

Broad Minded Patriotism. In the arena of National politics it is refreshing to find occusionally the manifestations of a broad-minded patriotism that can cordially recognize public ser vic without regard to party affiliation and the editorial which we republished trom the New York Sun Thursday is a most honorable libustration of the gener osity and justice with which a trul great to wanger can award a mamenda son where it feels that it is due. Triennial Convocation The eyes of the Tree Masons of the United States will be turned toward Topeka, kan, during the week beginning with the 22d of this month | the occa aion is one which occurs only once every three years—the triennial convocation of the general grand chapter of the Luited States It is the Royal Arch Masons who will thus assemble and as that degree is me to which the members of the frater nity most aspire, the proceedings will have an interest and an importance co mensurate with the elevation of that dig ulty and with the comparative rarity of heir enactment Apart from these considerations

orcover the unusual nature of the deliberations will lend interest to what is ald and done by these three hundred odd delegates in the name and by the au thority of the 100,000 Royal Arch Mason whom they represent and the lanumerable others who in time will be promoted to

All the past grand high priests will ike part at the l'opeka gathering In addition to them there will be a representation of every grand chapter in th republic, comprising the three council officers of every one of them This souncil does not meet frequently and as anch a concentre of masonic dignity is not witnessed oftener than once every three years, the interest of the fraternity in it may be understood The convention will have to deal with matters connected with the ritual I hi subject has grown in importance with the passing of the years sluce the meet ing of the last body, until various devia tions have become noticeable throughout the grand chapters These deviations Mr and Mrs John E Haley, of Fotest will require special action and it is the lity western the city yesterday Mr F C Robinson and daughter, of to establish uniformity in the ritual and the Bangors did not score, sharp work stands in the highwar in part and have ceremonies It is needless to point out that those matters are never entirely made public, but as there have been dif recard to the insignia and their proper use they will be definitely settled. Mr Renel S Kimball has gone to

There will also come up for adjudica tion various decisions promulgated by the grand chapters of the several States, but they are all comparatively unimpor tant. The authority of the convention is by no means absolute as the autonomy of the subordinate chapters is secured by the constitutions which have been granted them The powers of the convoca tion are as restricted to their special functions as are the powers of the grand hanters.

Such States as have no grand chapters of their own will be compelled to look to the convocation for authority to make special disposition of their resources Such jurisdictions as wish to form grand chapters will be heard There is also to be a special commission from the Sandwich Islands, the members of which dealer to form a grand chapter. The growth of the white population of that region and the increase in membership appear to warrant greater autonomy than has hitherto been deemed advisable This is the first convocation that has ever been obliged to deal at length with Masonic conditions in those is-

It is expected that the commission will secure various important privileges although none of the convocation memership will say in advance what notion ie likely to be taken.

The final adjournment will take place on the 26th or the 27th of this month The mayor of Topeka is to address the delegates, and the usual banquet in the Masonic Temple will bring the exercises to a close. The next convocation does not meet until 1897, and the choice of its place may precipitate a struggle between the representatives of the East and the

Bangors Defeat Haverhills Twice in One Afternoon

Magnificent Contests Enjoyed by Wildly Excited Crowd

Lewistons to Contest with the Bangors This Afternoon,

No one of the 950 and more person who attended the two great games at Maplewood Park yesterday afternoon was disa; pointed at the results or with] the sample roll of base ball goods placed on the field for their inspection. The Haverhills were the opponents of the under the kadership of Mrs. lohnson Bangors and they were looking for two more victories—and they are still look ing for all we know At any rate the defeated the visitors in both games by scores of 10 to 4 and 4 to 2 The Bangors played with great enap and sparkle and fully redeemed them selves for the auful exhibition of Wed nesday Wheeler pitched both games for the home team and I ampe for the visitors Wheeler did grand work in each and did even better in the second contest than in the first. In the first game it looked as though he were about to be the victim of a whelesale slaughter for the Haverhills made three runs by four singles and a base on balls but after that Theeler got his arm limbered and kept the visitors down to only one run lbs. second haing made us shout and that was when Lampe was given an attack of fuw other things we have forgotten and Slattery, Deady and Brudley bases on bulis and hits by Wheeker Fitz naurice White and Hayes the Bangors made 8

Then they seemed to the fourth and ainth and the game closed with the score 10 to 4 la Bangor's favor Deady made the star play of the contest. After drop ping two flies in the most inglorious nanner he made a long run for I idipe s fly into left field and barely reached it with one hand—but he held it. We thought the crowd never would stop applauding and chaering Moore music a Rengan made a brilliant Latch of White s liner Following is the score of the first part of the spectators. The Bangors went at it in a business like way. Shar rott plunked our a two bagger and Fitz maurice let people understand that he was in the game by a considerable mit jority by following with a three bagger Of course Sharrott scored Slattery tried to make it a homer but put up a fly for Freeman on which Fitzmaurice, scored however. Deady did the same as Slattery and Bradley went out Doe to Irwin-2 runs. In the second Shurroft led off with a base hit and went to third on Fitzmaurice whit then Fitzmaurice walked off first and toused the visitors to eatch him between bases so that Shir rott might score Sharrott stole home very neatly and Fitzmaurice got back on put outs at first After that triing by the visitors holding them back Not until the sixth did the Haverhills see what the home plate looked like by crossing it a little luck and two hits giving them two runs | That was all however I ang made a fine stop and throw on a hot one batted by Wheeler

CHAPTER VIL CHAPTER VII.

Before guard mounting, almost helf an hour before his usual time for appearing at the office, Colonel Maynard, hurried into his desk, sent the dederly for Captain Obester, and then the clerks in the sergebut major's room heard him cless and look the door. As the satjoet of fethe shooting was already under discussion among the men their assembled, this action on the part of the chief was considered highly significant. It was hardly five minutes before Chester came, looked surprised at finding the door looked, knocked and was admitted.

Ing the door locked, knocked and was admitted.

The lock on the haggard face at the desk, the dumb misery in the eyes, the wrath and horror in it all, carried him back 20 years to that gloomy morning in the casemates when the stery was rassed around that Cantain Mayarard passed, around that Captain Muynard had lost a wife and an intimate friend during the previous night. Chester saw at a glamee that despite his precan-tions, the blow had come, the trath been revealed at one fell swoop.

"Lock the door again, Chester, and come here. I have some questions to ask

The captain silently took the chair which was indicated by a wave of the colonel's hand and waited. For a moment no word more was spoken. The old soldier, white and trembling strange-ly, reseated himself at the desk and covered his face with his hands. Twice he drew them with foobly stroking movement over his eyes, as though to rally the stunned faculties and face the trying ordeal. Then a shiver passed through his frame, and with sudden lift of the head he fixed his guze on Chester's face and launched the question: "Chester, is there any kindness to man who has been through what I have in telling only half a tale, as you have done?" overed his face with his hands. Twice

There is no question that he loved her well, for he refused to give her up, no matter what his father threatened. They tried to buy her off, and she scorned them. Then they had a letter written, while he was sent abroad under pretense that he should have his will if he cam back in a year unchanged. By Jove, it seems she was as much in love as he, and it brokes her heart. She went off and died somewhere, and he oame' back ahead of time because her letters had ceased and found it all out. There was an awful seeme. He cursed them both father and mother—and left her senseless at his feet, and from that day to this they never heard of him, never could get the faintest report. It broke Renwick—killed him, I guess, for he died in two years, and, as for the mother, you would not think that a woman so apparently full of life and health was in desperate danger. And then the colonel left the office, svoiding, as has been told, a word with any man. Chester buttoned the tolltale any man. which surrounds them," writes Colonel S. B. Hilman.

"We know that Newton himself pronounced as absured the idea that matter could not at a distance, through vanous space, upon other matter. He looked to a universally diffused medium for the mechanism of gravitation. Its aboved that if the pressure of this medium increased as we riscute from dead bodies according to a cortain rute the law of gravitation would result. He was unable to suggest an explanation for the supposed variation in pressure of this medium, and accordingly left the cause of gravitation untonched.

"La Sage, the Swiss philosopher, at tempted to fix a cause for gravitation by assuming space to be filled with immunerable intoma flying in all directions. These atoms he called ultra mundane, because he supposed them to come from the outer universe. A single body would be how harded by thise atoms equally on all sides, but two or more bodies would pugitatly screen each other, so that the houleardment would be less on the sides of each body pext to the other and greater on the dides farther away. Consequently the bodies would be forced toward each other by the oxcess of bambardment on their outer sides. Under this hypothesis the cornus

THE CAUSE OF GRAVITATION.

One of the Mrst. ries of Nature That Science Cannot Unravel.

"The offer of a prize in a magazine for something new and solentifically valuable in regard to gravitation forchly suggests the finite of our knowledge in this direction. There are no effects in nature with which we are more familiar than these of gravitation. In the average of gravitation in the average of gravitation.

body pers to the other and greater on the sides farther away. Consequently the bodies would be forced toward each other by the excess of bumbardment on their onter sides. Under this hypothesis the corpussible promising necessary to produce the gravitation effects of matter is so great that the entire planetary system would be melted from the excessive heat produced. Hooke, the contemporary of Newton, attempted to assign the cause of gravitation to waves propagated in the surrounding medium. It has since been shown that in fluid motion the average pressure it least where the been gravitation. Sir William Themson, by making certain sesumptions in pregard to the medium of space and some very highly improbable suppositions in fegard to matter, where ashed to deture from them one of the laws of gravitation. The above may be said to be the only hypotheses which make any advance toward the explanation of gravitation. Of those that of Lo Sage is the only one sufficiently developed to be even discussed. We have the high distinctivity of the late Professor J. Clerk Maxwell for the statement that the progress toward solution of the problem has been almost impreceptible sines the time of Newton. He also asysthat the science producing value of the efforts made to answer the question is not to be measured by the prospect they afford of militarity yielding a solution, but by the effect in stimulating investigations of nature."—Chicago Tribune.

He always took a cheer that the control of humor that ofttimes enabled thin to extract fan from situations in which others found only ghom. Indeed his sense of humor was rather knower than one would desire, for sometimes it sprung things on him most unexpectable. It went skirs mishing on its own account and reached homorous conclusions with great suddenness before Stephen had caught up. When his mind came along, his sense of humor would jump out with some tiden so funny that Stephen would have to laugh in spite of himself.

"Of course this was a defect in Stephen's composition, and he knew it. You might have thought that as he grew older interesting years and cares would tame him somewhat and blumt his sense of humor, but they didn't. His years horensed, to be sure—he couldn't help that—that his cares of humor was as abounding as ever. It would greet him sometimes with a suide which seemed to say: Wharf We grow old? Well?
